

Camping 2015

100th Anniversary 1915 - 2015

NPS/Debbie Biddle

Enjoy a night under the stars in Rocky Mountain National Park! Five campgrounds offer wonderful opportunities for outdoor fun and adventure.

- Except for Longs Peak Campground which accepts tents only, all campgrounds can accommodate tent trailers, tents, pickup campers, trailers, and motorhomes. Every park campsite has a tent pad, picnic table and fire grate. More than one tent is allowed as long as all fit on the tent pad. There are no hookups (water, electric, or sewer) at any park campsites.
- Eight people maximum may camp at a given site except for designated group sites at Glacier Basin Campground.
- Total parkwide maximum length of stay is 7 nights between June 1-Sept 30. Campers can stay an additional 14 nights Oct 1-May 31. The most popular time for camping in the park is from early July to late September. Campgrounds are frequently full July 4th weekend through Labor Day and on fall weekends during the elk rut and colorful foliage. Get an early start: reservable campgrounds are often full by reservation, and the first-come, first-served campgrounds often fill by noon. See below for reservation information.
- Overnight stays in Rocky Mountain National Park must be in a campground (or a backcountry site). Staying overnight in a vehicle along a road, in a parking lot, or at a trailhead is not permitted.
- Evening ranger programs may be offered in summer. Check schedules at visitor centers, park newspaper or park website, nps.gov/romo

First-Come, First-Served Campgrounds

Longs Peak
Glacier Basin Loop C
Timber Creek

Campers hoping for first come, first served sites should go to the campground itself to see if any sites are available. Eager campers line up on busy days to try for sites. Check out time is noon, but sites may be vacated throughout the morning. Sites fill quickly, especially on busy summer days. Sites will not be held. Planning on camping at a first-come, first-served site can be disappointing, and backup plans are highly recommended. There are no refunds for unused nights.
